Bevy of beauties fly out

A group of Dutch and Belgian beauties flew out from Kununurra airport last week after taking part in a reality television production.

The show was being filmed at Home Valley Station and features an Australian 'Outback Jack' type of character with the dozen or so girls vying for his affections.

Some parts of the film were shot at the Heliwork hangar in Kununurra before the girls were 'dropped in' to the station by helicopter for further filming.

The girls (pictured) are believed to be a group that has been eliminated from the show.

However, they were not allowed to answer questions, but their Australian 'minder' generously allowed them to pose for a photograph.

It is not clear whether the production will air on Australian television.
